Pue's Occurrences 25 August 1852

Bangher Fair — Will begin on the 15th of September next according to the New Style which day, but for the change of style would have been the 4th of said month.

Pue's Occurrences 4 October 1753

One Night last week the following off affair happened between a man and his wife who live in Bolton-street, viz, he being subject to Quarrel when in liquor, had often told her he would put her in Bedlam to prevent speaking to for being drunk; and accordingly on said night, assisted by some fellows, forced her into a coach, and actually lodged her there; but the next morning the Surgeons going to visit the Prison found the Woman to be in her perfect senses, and to her Husband's no small mortification, sent her home to him again, desiring her to send him there, as by his behaviour he seemed to be a proper Object for such a Place.

Pue's Occurrences 1 January 1754

Same evening a man held a wager of a Guinea that he could carry half hundred weight between his teeth from the Watch House in James's Gate to the Poor House at the upper end of James's street without stopping to rest, which he performed in a short time and won the wager, with the loss only of one of his teeth

Pue's Occurrences 22 June 1754

Sunday last a man in Black Horse Lane, who after the Example of his betters, had been zealously serving the Devil in an Ale House, went home in a pious Fit to discipline his Wife, who had lain in but three Days, and the flesh proving too weak for the Spirit, he beat her in so cruel a manner, that her life is greatly despaired of. The women in the Neighbourhood, resenting so inhuman an Action, rose in a body, and, after giving him a sober Pumping and making him stand two hours In the Stocks, dismissed him, on his giving his Parole to his good Behaviour for the Future

Freeman's Journal 15 August 1823

Female Cricketers — Monday, a singular match of cricket was played at Bockland, in Kent, between ten married men and ten single women employed in the paper mill. The match was contested with uncommon spirit on both sides, the single women beating by about twenty runs, in the last innings the women got 113 runs. Afterwards the party adjourned to the Cherry Tree where supper, to be paid for by the losers was sumptuously served up. After the cloth was remove, the buxom party joined in a merry dance till a late hour

Limerick Evening Post and Clare Sentinal 3 April 1832

New wives for New South Wales — a vessel, we believe the Red Rover, has been taken up by the Government, for the purpose of conveying 200 free female emigrants from Cork to New South Wales, who are to be provided with situations or husbands as chance may offer, on their arrival [Note passenger list with native place and occ NSW State Archives (4/4822; microfilm copy SR Reel 2795, photocopy [City] COD399). 1 vol.]

Pue's Occurrences 1 March 1755

Last night the Rt Hon the Lord Mayor and Mr Sheriff CRAMPTON, attended by the constables went to Essex street and took a Billard Table out of one of the coffee Houses which they publicaly burnt in the street. His Lordship went to several other places where Billard Tables were kept but being refused admittance, prevented from the burning of several others
